Many of these entries are duplicates. It would be necessary to look at each individual record in the original source to understand whether there are actually three, four, or five people – I do not have access to the original records at this time. However, the above table shows that there are either two individuals or a dozen – really need to examine original sources. Even in those entries where individual #1 is clear, there are differences in dates entered.

In addition, individual #1 arrived with a wife and four children, so it's not likely he is the James Ferguson who supposedly married Margaret Kinnan/Canaan, although it is possible. Also, it seems unlikely that he would enlist for three years to fight in the Revolutionary War in 1777, as some family trees indicate – although possible - so this may not be the same person.
